David Reed's Unhealed Speech Omens Split of Democrats and GOP

WASHINGTON — Ex-Senator David A. Reed delivered a speech before the American Iron and Steel Institute in New York last week which escaped such attention from the press. But political strategists who know what is going on behind the scenes consider it the most significant political utterance made in many months.

Reed, a life-long Republican regular, intimate of Andrew W. Mellon, confidant of Herbert Hoover, proposed that conservative Republicans unite with conservative Democrats against Roosevelt in 1936.

"Artificial distinctions of party and sectional prejudice," said the Pennsylvania, "cannot longer be allowed to divide that vast majority of the American people which is wholly sane. A public man can do no greater service to his country at this hour than to bring it to pass that sane Americans, whatever their party heretofore, may unite to support sound and honest candidates upon a sound and honest platform of political principles."

A statement of this kind coming from Reed would be of greatest importance under any circumstances. But what makes it doubly significant is the fact that Reed and the powerful interests he represents are secretly active in pushing a plan to place a conservative fusion slate in the field next year.

Not only have Old Guard Democratic and Republican political leaders been felt out on the matter, but big campaign contributors have been approached.

It looks like the beginning of the long-heralded split of the Democratic and Republican parties.

The Man Bilbo, Mississippi Senator, would make no complaint if the post office failed to deliver a few of the thousands of letters sent by job-seekers.

But Jim Farley's postal experts never fail. No matter how illegible the scrawl or how strange the directions, the letters always reach Bilbo.

Here are specimens taken from envelopes he has actually received:

Mr. Bill Boo; theodora Bilbo; Governor Bilbow; Sinitter Bilbow; Mr. thero G. Bilbo; State cineter; Senator Bill Boo. In the White House, Washington, D. C.

In some cases the envelope does not even bear his name. But if it comes to Washington postmarked from any point in Mississippi, postal authorities deliver it to Bilbo.

A negro addressed an envelope with the words, "Master Bilder, Wash. D. C." Another bore simply "United States Senat, Washington," and another "Washington house in car Senate office Building."

Bilbo is honored, but sees no reason why he should get all of this mail. Some of it, he insists, should go to his colleague Senator Pat Harrison.

Own Fault

Too much social activity in the White House Secretariat was behind the defeat of the TVA amendments in the House Military Affairs committee last week.

The amendments, designed to over-see crippling decisions by the courts, would give the TVA specific authority to sell excess electricity. They would also increase its bond-issuing power from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 in order to buy private power properties.

Under masterful parliamentary handling by Senator George Norris, the bill won Senate approval without difficulty. But in the House committee a combination of Republicans and Old Guard

School Man's Memorial Day Address Praised by Huge Throng

PARADE LARGE ONE

"Munitions Leeches" Assailed in Address

"That these dead may not have died in vain," was the theme of the address given by Frank Fischer, superintendent of schools, at the Memorial day exercises sponsored by the American Legion Thursday morning in Forest cemetery.

The address was highly praised. The services, which started at 8 a. m. and continued until all veterans had been commemorated by exercises in three cemeteries, High-st, Forest and St. Joseph's, were termed the finest in recent years.

"Viewed from the standpoint of a hundred years," said the speaker, "it does not matter when we die, or where, or how, but for human beings to be obliged to die in vain whether on the battlefield or elsewhere—that truly is deplorable."

"Did Die in Vain"

"Seventeen years is too short a period for history to give a final verdict, but the evidence is mounting and mounting which tends to show that our buddies who gave their all in the World war did die in vain," Mr. Fischer continued.

He stated that while our country needs the capitalist, it has no need whatever for the munitions manufacturer who fattens on billions upon the blood of his fellow man. "So long," said the speaker, "as we are so uncivilized as to tolerate Sir Basil Zaharoff and similar leeches, just so long will peace on earth be a farce."

Mr. Fischer continued with his views upon various questions of the day which touch upon the question of peace. He favored military training at Ohio State university for the present, a draft which would include money as well as men, and a Monroe Doctrine which would be as fair for Japan as for America. He pleaded for an open mind on the part of his hearers in order that we might evaluate the questions of the day, not on the basis of prejudice but on the basis of their truth and merits.

Two Veterans Attend

Two veterans of the Civil War, George Trimmer and William Parks, were interested participants in the day's festivities. They were seated in front of the speaker's platform and listened attentively to catch each word the speaker uttered. Henry A. Foerst and Isaac Groves, the city's other two Civil War veterans, were unable to visit the cemetery although Mr. Foerst viewed the splendid parade from his bedroom window. He has not been able to leave his room since November.

The parade which saw the Legion members in bright new uniforms and the school musical units were in rare form.

Frank Littleton, commander of Howard Hall post, was the officer of the day.

With splendid weather prevailing, nearly every community in Pickaway-co participated in a Memorial service. Several splendid addresses were heard with veterans of Civil, Spanish-American and World wars eulogized.

4 POLICEMEN HURT IN RIOT

Columbus Packing Co. Strike Sympathizers Jailed As Result of Fight

COLUMBUS, May 31—Violence broke out on the Columbus labor waterfront today, resulting in injuries to four policemen and the arrest of 22 strike sympathizers, as a small army of 300 former employees of the Columbus Packing Co., clashed with 200 officers here.

The hand-to-hand combat, in which strikers wielded clubs and hurled rocks while policemen swung black-jacks, took place at the South Street viaduct here as the strikers attempted to parade to the packing company plant.

Defied by the strikers, a police cruiser was driven into the crowd of yelling and shouting strikers. One picket was knocked to the ground. Almost immediately a free-for-all ensued. Patrol wagons were rushed to the scene and loaded with belligerents as the policemen battled for almost a half-hour to bring the situation under control.

Defeated by the police strategy, the strikers fell back but later reorganized their lines and marched upon city hall to protest to Mayor Henry W. Worley. The mayor, angered by the riot, told the strike sympathizers that "the way I feel now, you fellows have forfeited your right to picket."

IRELAND FUNERAL IS HELD FRIDAY

"They took Billy Ireland home today!"

The funeral cortege for the world-famed cartoonist passed through this city at 11:45 a. m. Friday enroute to Chillicothe, his native city, for funeral services.

The home of the author and artist of "The Passing Show," who died Wednesday morning, was banked with floral tributes, one of them a scarlet "O" from friends at Ohio State university.

A number of local admirers attended the funeral services at the grave.

Plans had been made here for the high school band to play an appropriate tribute to Mr. Ireland as the cortege passed through the city but it was called off when the family refused to permit any public services.

Police Chief W. S. McCrady joined the motor escort through the city.

MORE PICKAWAY-CO CHICKENS STOLEN

FAMILY GIVEN NEW HOPE FOR BOY'S SAFETY

WEEK HAS PASSED

Federal Men "Officially" Enter Investigation

TACOMA, Wash., May 31—"A week's time."

Those three words had a significant meaning in Weyerhaeuser kidnapping mystery today—seven days after curly haired George Weyerhaeuser, 9, was snatched in broad daylight for $200,000 ransom.

To John Philip Weyerhaeuser, timber magnate, and his wife, parents of the missing child, this day brought new hope that little George soon would be home.

A spokesman for the Weyerhaeuser family said the parents based their hope on a section of the "egoist's" ransom note, which read:

"So if you just follow the rules as they are laid down by us you will have the one you love back home in A WEEK'S TIME if you care about them $200,000 worth."

"Followed Rules"

The anguished Weyerhaeusers insist, the spokesman said, that they have "followed the rules," and they "care about them $200,000 worth," as evidence in their cryptic "Percy Minnie" note which said "we are ready."

The second note, "It was unofficially stated, instructed the Weyerhaeusers to employ a new method of communication."

It was stated that the signature of the little kidnap victim was scrawled on the envelope of the second note.

The second "week's time" element comes from the United States government.

Today the G-men entered the case officially for the first time.

Under a law recently passed by congress, kidnaping becomes a federal offense after the victim has been held seven days. The government assumes that the victim has been transported out of the state after a week's time, thus enabling the G-men to investigate. However, the department of

Sponsored by Senator Keith Lawrence (D) of Cleveland, the bond refund is designed to aid financially-distressed cities and was accepted by the legislature after much debate as a substitute for the two-year bond moratorium advocated by Governor Davey.

While the general assembly enacted it under the impression that it would abate the necessity for a bond moratorium, the governor has declared it will not enable all cities facing operating deficits to obtain necessary local government funds.

TOLEDO STRIKE FEAR AVERTED

Mediator Acts Postponing Walk-out; Trouble Looms in Textile Field

TOLEDO, May 31—Prompt action of a federal mediator today forestalled for at least three days the threatened strike of 1,000 workers of the Toledo Edison Co., a walkout that would affect all industry and most of the homes in Toledo, as well as Defiance and other cities in this section.

J. E. O'Connor, federal mediator in Toledo, acted immediately upon the announcement by the Edison workers that they would walk out at midnight tonight unless their demands for a 20 per cent wage increase were met by the company.

WASHINGTON, May 31—First strikes in the textile industry as the result of the supreme court's death blow to the NRA were reported to the capital today.

Discharge of union local officials slashing of wages and the increase of hours above former code provisions were given as the reasons for the labor disputes.

RELIEF IS RUSHED

43 Members of Royal Air Force Feared Dead

KARACHI, India, May 31—One of the most disastrous earthquakes of the 20th century razed the entire city of Quetta today, killing an estimated 20,000 persons.

The quake, which laid waste a large section of Baluchistan, destroyed the important British military post at Quetta, where 43 members of the Royal Air Force were killed.

British and Indian troops worked feverishly to extricate the dead and injured from the debris of tens of thousands of homes, including those of a modern British quarter which had many up-to-date, western-style buildings.

Rush Doctors, Nurses

Answering a radio relief call from Sir Norman Cator, governor-general's agent for Baluchistan, who himself narrowly escaped death, scores of trains set out for Quetta from provincial capitals bearing doctors, nurses, and medical supplies.

The radio was the only line of communication not wrecked by the quake.

One train left Karachi at 5:00 p. m. with a contingent of doctors and nurses, many of whom were food and clothing. Gangs of work-volunteers, and medical supplies, men to repair railway and telegraph lines also were aboard.

Military units, and the Royal Air Force also sent all possible aid to the stricken area.

Only available word of the disaster was that contained in intercepted radio messages.

FARM GROUP BUYS PICKAWAY DAIRY

New Co-operative Absorbs Cream Organization With T. M. Glick As Head; New Plant Planned On W. Main-st; Shafer Remains As Manager

Planning to construct a modern creamery on W. Main-st site formerly occupied by the Colonial Carriage building, the farm bureau announced today that the Pickaway-co Cream Co-operative association, one of its affiliations, had purchased the Pickaway Dairy Co., Water-st, and would begin operations Saturday, June 1.

The purchase price was not disclosed. Papers incorporating The Pickaway Dairy Co-operative association, the name to be used, were to be filed today. Incorporators are T. M. Glick, president; John Bell, secretary; H. C. Hines, Clay Hitler, J. E. Stevenson, R. D. Head, and Walter Berger. The association will be incorporated for $150,000 with common stock available to only farm operators or owners, and persons affiliated with the farm bureau. Principal stockholders of the Pickaway Dairy Co. from whom the industry was purchased are G. H. Armstrong, Charles H. May, E. C. Smith, and J. D. Carter.

Shafer is Manager

Reed Shafer, W. Main-st, who has managed the dairy for more than three years, will remain as manager. No changes are planned in the remaining personnel of the dairy.

The Co-operative association plans to build its new structure in July or August. Upon its completion the dairy will manufacture ice cream and cheese and will retail milk. The Pickaway Dairy's fine product, Gold Bar butter, will also be continued.

The Pickaway-co Cream Co-operative association which came into existence June 1, 1924 is being absorbed by the new Pickaway Dairy Co-operative. J. L. Shafer has been serving as president of the cream co-operative.

1,100 Producers

There are now 1,100 producers connected with the co-operative and it is planned to even increase this number. Pickaway-co, of course, provides the greatest number while all surrounding counties have producers who are connected with the local organization.

Stock in the amount of $5 in the new organization has been voted to each of the 1,100 participating producers.

Harry Briggs, farm bureau official, has been instrumental in developing the dairy project. In February he led a delegation of farm bureau and cream co-operative officials on a tour of a number of co-operative creameries through the middle west and since that time the move has been gaining momentum.

The project is considered by farm bureau officials as the most important step they have ever taken.

TOLEDO STRIKE FEAR AVERTED

Mediator Acts Postponing Walk-out; Trouble Looms In Textile Field

TOLEDO, May 31—Prompt action of a federal mediator today forestalled for at least three days the threatened strike of 1,000 workers of the Toledo Edison Co., a walkout that would affect all industry and most of the homes in Toledo, as well as Defiance and other cities in this section.

J. E. O'Connor, federal mediator in Toledo, acted immediately upon the announcement by the Edison workers that they would walk out at midnight tonight unless their demands for a 20 per cent wage increase were met by the company.

WASHINGTON, May 31—First strikes in the textile industry as the result of the supreme court's death blow to the NRA were reported to the capital today.

Discharge of union local officials slashing of wages and the increase of hours above former code provisions were given as the reasons for the labor disputes.

Report of the first strike was made to the textile labor board by its southern representatives. Officials of the United Textile workers also received reports of strikes and labor unrest.

COLUMBUS, May 31—More than a million workers in all walks of business and industry in Ohio piled their trades in anxiety today.

Fearful that a ruling of the state supreme court, following the U. S. supreme court's blow to the NRA, may tear down the Ohio Recovery Act, the last wall of governmental restriction on wages and hours, they looked to the captains of business and industry to chart the course into the future.

FEAR 20,000 DIE IN QUAKE; MANY BRITISH

India Scene of Disaster, Today, One of Greatest of Twentieth Century

RELIEF IS RUSHED

43 Members of Royal Air Force Feared Dead

KARACHI, India, May 31—One of the most disastrous earthquakes of the 20th century razed the entire city of Quetta today, killing an estimated 20,000 persons.

The quake, which laid waste a large section of Baluchistan, destroyed the important British military post at Quetta, where 43 members of the Royal Air force were killed.

British and Indian troops worked feverishly to extricate the dead and injured from the debris of tens of thousands of homes, including those of a modern British quarter which had many up-to-date, western-style buildings.

Rush Doctors, Nurses

Answering a radio relief call from Sir Norman Cator, governor-general's agent for Baluchistan, who himself narrowly escaped death, scores of trains set out for Quetta from provincial capitals bearing doctors, nurses, and medical supplies.

The radio was the only line of communication not wrecked by the quake.

One train left Karachi at 5:00 p. m. with a contingent of doctors and nurses, many of whom were food and clothing. Gangs of work-volunteers, and medical supplies, men to repair railway and telegraph lines also were aboard.

Military units and the Royal Air Force also sent all possible aid to the stricken area.

Only available word of the disaster was that contained in inter-

23 DROWN IN FLOOD WATERS

Colorado Springs Hit Hard By Flood; Damage to Reach Thousands

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 31—Colorado today estimated its "lood dead at 23 persons as waters subsided in a score of streams flowing from the eastern slope of the Rockies.

The greatest loss was in Colorado Springs, cut off from all outside communication by high water on three sides of the city and a steep mountain on the fourth. The number known to have been drowned or seen carried away here by flood waters reached 18, although several were unidentified and no bodies were recovered.

The bodies of Mrs. Elsa Lewein and her two small children, Donald and Irene, of Haxton, Colo., William B. Menzie, 53, Louisville, Colo., coal miner, and Walter Wimsch, 12, of Weldona, Colo., drowned in floods earlier in the week, were recovered.

Damage including $200,000 to the Colorado state hospital at Pueblo, $50,000 to Denver city property and the loss of hundreds of head of livestock, is expected to reach into the millions of dollars. Houses in the lower portion of Colorado springs and several smaller towns, railroad trackage and paved highways were demolished.

MANTACA, Cal., May 31—Scores of farmers were forced to flee their homes when a levee on the San Joaquin river gave way near here early today.

The flood was caused when a broiling sun melted part of the record snow pack in the San Joaquin watershed, sending a wall of water raging down the river.

ITALIAN SETS NEW RECORD ON SPEEDWAY

Kelly Pettilo Captures Major Prize at Indianapolis; One Driver Killed

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31—Kelly Pettilo, an inscrutable mite of an Italian with an infectious grin, today is the first citizen of the automotive world.

For one thing, he is alive. That is more than can be said for Clay Weatherly of Cincinnati, who couldn't quite make the northwest turn wall at the Indianapolis speedway in yesterday's race and remain intact. Weatherly died instantly when his car leaped the wall at 110 miles an hour and burst into flames.

There was yet another casualty. Weatherly's mechanic, Ed Bradburn, suffered a broken back in the crash and is in a critical condition.

Gordon Over Wall

No, satisfied with the killing of Weatherly, the 500-mile grind, viewed by more than 150,000 persons, the largest crowd in the history of the event, saw Al Gordon go over the wall at the same place. Neither Gordon nor his mechanic was injured in the smashup, thanks to metal helmets both men wore when they essayed to clear the wall without ceremony.

Pettilo accepted the verdict with a good-natured grin. His first thought was for Wilbur Shaw, who finished second.

He said:

"That guy had me worried. He was right after me all the time."

It was the first time that Pettilo had enjoyed any success in five years of racing. In this respect, he said:

"No other car that I had driven had ever held together long enough for me to get anywhere. Most of them fall apart, you know."

Heretofore, motor trouble has dogged the game little Italian

Mays Forced Out

The hero of the race was Rex Mays, upstart Californian, who led for more than 300 miles, but who was forced out of the running with mechanical difficulties. Mays held the post position at the outset, and maintained a blinding pace until he was compelled to take to the pits. He won much lap money.

Pettilo averaged 106.240, despite the necessity of driving 33 miles in a light rain and in the face of a caution flag. During this period, he was compelled to drive at less than 75 miles an hour. The previous record for the 500-mile grind was 104.863 set by Bill Cummings, who won the 1934 race.

Pettilo is the winner of approximately $30,000 in speedway prize money and commercial donations. Shaw's prize was $10,000 while Cummings' prize money will probably reach $5,000.

To win, Pettilo was coached by Pete Depaolo, winner of the 1925 race, who stood in the pits and signalled the doughty Italian throughout. The winner gradually improved his position from the 125-mile point until he was in the lead and finally there to stay.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

Hoster May Fight

Jackie Hoster, youthful and hard-hitting Columbus fighter, may be one of Norman Aronson's cards soon at Scioppo—Hoster will come here but a foe for him is what is puzzling the local promoter—Hoster, from the Columbus west side, is a real mixer and crowd pleaser—Aronson's next card will be Thursday, June 6, at Scioppo.

But "Never Again"

Home again from the Indianapolis speedway and again the pledge is taken: "Never again"—Probably the bug will bite hard again next year and we'll be right back, but a standing wager is offered that three out of five Ohioans who went to Indianapolis are saying today the same thing we are—The race was a peach from start to finish with Pettilo driving beautifully and Shaw hanging right on his tail with Billy Cummings' last year's champion not far behind—That's the way it was all day, only a few seconds between the first three or four cars.

Dozen From City

At least a dozen Circlevillians were in the crowd—Several didn't know and didn't care whether or not there was a race—Newspapers estimate the attendance at 155,000 while Graham McNamee, the NBC spieler, placed it at 175,000—We're naturally agree with the newspapers.

All Six Strong

The recreation ball league promises to bring over with competition this summer—All six teams are strong, not a weak one in the bunch—The Purina Chows will look much better this summer than they did Wednesday evening—A bunch of clouters that crew but Bill Heggle was in rare form.

New Coach Here

Elber Reger, newly-elected high school coach, was here Wednesday evening and met a lot of the boys with whom he will work next fall—He attended the junior-senior banquet as a guest of Mr. Fischer. The coach's fiancée was also, too.

63,000 WITNESS NEW YORK TILTS

NEW YORK, May 31—Only a year ago faint hearted pessimists were trying to make us believe baseball was no longer the national game and that the near future would see ball parks being cut up into building lots.

Baseball supplied its own answer yesterday when some 250,000 stormed the turnstiles for Memorial day doubleheaders.

The Giants and Dodgers set a new National league record at the Polo grounds where 63,943 paid their way in and where more than 25,000 were turned away an hour before the game time. If baseball has slipped in the affection of the public it wasn't noticeable yesterday.

The Giants obliged their supporters by taking the doubleheader from their arch enemies across the bridge, 8-3 and 6-0. Parmelee and Fitzsimmons were the winning pitchers.

OIL COMPANY TEAM SMACKS PURINA CHOW

Cities Service Aggregation Shows Power Turning in 16 to 3 Victory

Clabbing the offerings of Raymond Smith and Pug Fowler to all corners of the lot, the Cities Service Oils started their bid for the city recreation ball championship Wednesday evening when they defeated the Purina Chows, 16-3. The Chow team is comprised of nearly all of last year's Contender Corporation team.

The Cities Service gang, backed by Clarence Helvering, confined its attack to two innings, fourth and sixth, to score 12 in the former and four in the latter.

Three Home Runs

Two members of the Oil company team, Jaggy Davis and Jack Eldridge, hit home runs while Charlie Stevens of the Purina also connected for the circuit.

Bill Heggle pitched for the winners and gave only four hits. The winners counted 13 hits.

Barr and Thompson were the officials.

Tonight will find the Jones Specials and the Circleville Oils meeting at 6:30.

Although a box score is not available the following athletes: a members of Wednesday's competing teams:

Cities Service: Wilson and Buskirk, rf; M. Davis, 2b; J. Davis, ss; Kline, 1b; Smalley, cf; Eldridge, rf; Weller, 3b; Gordon, c; Heggle, p.

Purina Chows: Watson, cf; Fowler, rf; C. Brungs, 3b; Accord, lf; Snyder, c; Trimmer, 1b; Smith, p; Stevens, ss; Tomlinson, 2b.

The pitchers tonight will probably be Maloney for the Oils and Bob Jones for the Specials.

ROMAN SOLDIER TO RUN AT LATONIA

CINCINNATI, May 31—With the favorite, Roman Soldier, expected to arrive today, the racing population at the Latonia race track near here had swelled considerably overnight as late arrivals began stringing in for the meeting's featured Latonia Derby tomorrow.

Roman Soldier, runner-up to Omaha in the Kentucky Derby, was the odds-on favorite in future books to capture the Latonia event over such horses as Gillie, Demonstration, Whiskol, show horse in the Kentucky Derby, Prince Splendor and Chaceview.

Favorites entered the winners' circle here in five of yesterday's eight events to complete one of the most successful "form" days in recent years at the track.

LOAD OF FISH PUT IN CANAL

No Fishing To Be Permitted Until July 1 to Protect Imported Fish

Game Protector Clarence Francis today supervised the distribution of a truck load of fish in the canal lake south of the city, above the point where the dam is under construction.

The shipment consisted of a large number of black and rock bass, crappies, bluegills and cat's. Many of the black bass were from 12 to 24 inches in length. The shipment came direct from the state hatcheries on Lake Erie and were obtained from the state fish and game commission through the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen's league.

To protect the fish for a short period, the canal will be posted and no fishing permitted until July 1.

Construction work on the dam is rapidly nearing completion and within a few weeks the water gate will be closed, which will raise the water approximately eight feet at the dam.

BEULAH PARK'S MEET NEAR END

COLUMBUS, May 31—"Form Players" were expected to be bombarded out of the track at Beulah Park today as the current meeting enters its last two days.

Always noted as a "long-shot" track, the last two days of the meeting were expected to produce some of the most fruitful prices yet rewarded to wagers this meeting while the "off" track, now in prospect, was not figured to aid the favorites.

A throng of approximately 7500 fans jammed the oval to witness the holiday racing yesterday and were rewarded with four favorites entering the winners' circle.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

Hoster May Fight

Jackie Hoster, youthful and hardhitting Columbus fighter, may be one of Norman Aronson's cards soon at Scippo—Hoster will come here but a foe for him is what is puzzling the local promoter—Hoster, from the Columbus west side, is a real mixer and crowd pleaser—Aronson's next card will be Thursday, June 6, at Scippo.

But "Never Again"

Home again from the Indianapolis speedway and again the pledge is taken: "Never again."—Probably the bug will bite hard again next year and we'll be right back, but a standing wager is offered that three out of five Ohioans who went to Indianapolis are saying today the same thing we are—The race was a peach from start to finish with Pettillo driving beautifully and Shaw hanging right on his tail with Billy Cummings' last year's champion not far behind—That's the way it was all day, only a few seconds between the first three or four cars.

Dozen From City

At least a dozen Circlevillians were in the crowd—Several didn't know and didn't care whether or not there was a race—Newspapers estimate the attendance at 155,000 while Graham McNamee, the NBC spieler, placed it at 175,000—We're naturally agree with the newspapers.

All Six Strong

The recreation ball league promises to brim over with competition this summer—All six teams are strong, not a weak one in the bunch—The Purina Chows will look much better this summer than they did Wednesday evening—A bunch of clouters that crew but Bill Hegele was in rare form.

New Coach Here

Elber Reger, newly-elected high school coach, was here Wednesday evening and met a lot of the boys with whom he will work next fall—He attended the junior-senior banquet as a guest of Mr. Fischer—The coach's fiancée was along, too.

63,000 WITNESS NEW YORK TILTS

NEW YORK, May 31—Only a year ago faint hearted pessimists were trying to make us believe baseball was no longer the national game and that the near future would see ball parks being cut up into building lots.

Baseball supplied its own answer yesterday when some 250,000 stormed the turnstiles for Memorial day doubleheaders.

The Giants and Dodgers set a new National league record at the Polo grounds where 63,943 paid their way in and where more than 25,000 were turned away an hour before the game time. If baseball has slipped in the affection of the public it wasn't noticeable yesterday.

The Giants obliged their supporters by taking the doubleheader from their arch enemies across the bridge, 8-3 and 6-0. Parmelee and Fitzsimmons were the winning pitchers.

OIL COMPANY TEAM SMACKS PURINA CHOW

Cities Service Aggregation Shows Power Turning in 16 to 3 Victory

Clubbing the offerings of Raymond Smith and Pug Fowler to all corners of the lot, the Cities Service Oils started their bid for the city recreation ball championship Wednesday evening when they defeated the Purina Chows, 16-3. The Chow team is comprised of nearly all of last year's Container Corporation team.

The Cities Service gang, backed by Clarence Helvering, confined its attack to two innings, fourth and sixth, to score 12 in the former and four in the latter.

Three Home Runs

Two members of the Oil company team, Jaggy Davis and Jack Eldridge, hit home runs while Clarke Stevens of the Purinas also connected for the circuit.

Bill Hegele pitched for the winners and gave only four hits. The winners counted 13 hits.

Barr and Thompson were the officials.

Tonight will find the Jones Specials and the Circleville Oils meeting at 6:30.

Although a box score is not available the following athletes are members of Wednesday's competing teams:

Cities Service: Wilson and Eus-kirk, lf; M. Davis, 2b; J. Davis, ss; Kline, 1b; Smalley, cf; Eldridge, rf; Wefler, 3 b; Gordon, c; Hegele, p.

Purina Chows: Watson, cf; Fowler, rf-p; G. Brungs, 3b; Accord, lf; Snyder, c; Trimmer, 1b; Smith, p; Stevens, ss; Tomlinson, 2b.

The pitchers tonight will probably be Maloney for the Oils and Bob Jones for the Specials.

The standing:

Team	G	W	L	Pct.
Eschman Feeds	1	1	0	1.000
Pickaway Dairy	1	1	0	1.000
Cities Service	1	1	0	1.000
Jones Specials	1	0	1	.000
Circleville Oil	1	0	1	.000
Purina Chow	1	0	1	.000

Week's Schedule

Friday—Jones Specials vs. Circleville Oils.

All games start promptly at 6:30.

RED BIRDS RETURN

COLUMBUS, May 31—The Red Birds crossed bats with Indianapolis here today, seeking to fatten their .500-percentage and move up the American Association ladder from sixth place.

ROMAN SOLDIER TO RUN AT LATONIA

CINCINNATI, May 31—With the favorite, Roman Soldier, expected to arrive today, the equine population at the Latonia race track near here had swelled considerably overnight as late arrivals began stringing in for the meeting's featured Latonia Derby tomorrow.

Roman Soldier, runner-up to Omaha in the Kentucky Derby, was the odds-on favorite in future books to capture the Latonia event over such horses as Gillie, Demonstration, Whiskolo, show horse in the Kentucky Derby, Prince Splendor and Chac-view.

Favorites entered the winners' circle here in five of yesterday's eight events to complete one of the most successful "form" days in recent years at the track.

Make Glenwood Park & Pool Your Home OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

A gift for everybody that attends. Dancing every Sunday Night. A clean, respectable place to come to, courteous treatment and everybody welcome.

LOAD OF FISH PUT IN CANAL

No Fishing To Be Permitted Until July 1 to Protect Imported Fish

Game Protector Clarence Francis today supervised the distribution of a truck load of fish in the canal lake south of the city, above the point where the dam is under construction.

The shipment consisted of a large number of black and rock bass, crappies, bluegills and catfish. Many of the black bass were from 12 to 24 inches in length. The shipment came direct from the state hatcheries on Lake Erie and were obtained from the state fish and game commission through the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen's league.

To protect the fish for a short period, the canal will be posted and no fishing permitted until July 1.

Construction work on the dam is rapidly nearing completion and within a few weeks the water gate will be closed, which will raise the water approximately eight feet at the dam.

BEULAH PARK'S MEET NEAR END

COLUMBUS, May 31—"Form Players" were expected to be bombarded out of the track at Beulah Park today as the current meeting enters its last two days.

Always noted as a "long-shot" track, the last two days of the meeting were expected to produce some of the most fruitful prices yet rewarded to wagers this meeting while the "off" track, now in prospect, was not figured to aid the favorites.

A throng of approximately 7500 fans jammed the oval to witness the holiday racing yesterday and were rewarded with four favorites entering the winners' circle.

BRAGG WINS CUP

John D. Bragg, Montclair, Ave., won the Lormis cup in the Memorial day tournament at the Pickaway Country club.

The study of the past is a poor academic process unless it makes the child interpret the present.—B. H. Darrow, P. T. A. executive.

BUCKS IN SECOND

COLUMBUS, May 31—Ohio State's baseball nine held firm to second place in the Big Ten today after taking both ends of a Memorial Day double-header from Indiana 6 to 2 and 13 to 8 here.

A victory for Wisconsin over Minnesota, the league leader, in the Gophers' last conference game, would give Ohio a tie with Chicago and Illinois for the conference title.

200 Juniors, Seniors, Guests Enjoy Their Annual Banquet

THE SENIOR CLASS COLORS, green and white, were carried out in beautiful decorations at Memorial hall for the major high school event of the year. Wednesday night, when the juniors entertained the seniors at their annual banquet.

The affair this year was a dinner dance with two hundred juniors, seniors, teachers and board of education members assembled.

The tables, placed around the wall of the large hall, were prettily appointed. White covers were used and green candles lighted the small tables where the students were seated. Bowls of white carnations, the class flower, centered the two large tables, where covers were laid for the board and faculty members. Attractive green back programs were used at each place.

A false ceiling overhung the large space in the center of the hall for dancing. The ceiling was made of green and white crepe paper streamers hung from the balcony to the stage, where the orchestra sat. White iris and fern decorated the foot of the stage.

Several freshman girls served the dinner which was prepared by American Legion auxiliary members.

Henderson, president of the junior class, gave the welcoming address after the three course dinner and introduced the numbers on the short program presented. Charles Diehlman, senior class president, responded to the welcome.

Hillairo Haecker, a junior, entertained the group with several popular numbers on the accordion after which a toast by Frank Fischer, superintendent, was enjoyed.

"The Southern Minister" was a song by a trio, comprised of Dick Plum, Bob Watts and Walter Osborn. Following a toast by Charles May, president of the board of education, the program closed with the entire group singing the school song, "The Red and the Black."

Have you found the SUNNY PACKAGE on your grocer's shelf?

It's a delicious ready-to-eat cereal. Millions of Americans have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, effective means of correcting common constipation—the kind caused by lack of "bulk" in the menu.

Laboratory measurements show that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in this tempting cereal is more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables—because it resists digestion better. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this cleans out the intestinal waste.

Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines? Two table-spoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases with each meal. If this fails to give relief, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or cook into appetizing recipes. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Washington Merry-go-round

Democrats—with the aid of White House bungling—succeeded in tabling the bill, thus preventing it from being submitted to the House, where its passage is certain. The vote in the committee was 13 to 12, which shows how easily there might have been a different story.

That the situation in the committee was precarious was no secret. Chairman McSwain made a special trip to the White House to warn the President that his personal influence would be necessary to force some of the recalcitrant Democrats into line. He promised full cooperation and asked to be notified when to act.

At 5 p. m. on the day before the committee was to vote, supporters of the bill attempted to get in touch with the President to ask him to put the "heat" on Representatives Smith (Conn.) and Schaefer (Ill.), two Democrats who were flirting with the opposition.

A telephone call was put in for Marvin McIntyre. They were informed that the socially-minded White House secretary was "out." An assistant promised to deliver the SOS message—but the friends of the bill heard nothing more.

So next morning the opposition scuttled the bill.

The issue is not settled.

Washington Merry-go-round

Democrats—with the aid of White House bungling—succeeded in tabling the bill, thus preventing it from being submitted to the House, where its passage is certain. The vote in the committee was 13 to 12, which shows how easily there might have been a different story.

That the situation in the committee was precarious was no secret. Chairman McSwain made a special trip to the White House to warn the President that the measure was in danger, that his personal influence would be necessary to force some of the recalcitrant Democrats into line. He promised full cooperation and asked to be notified when to act.

At 5 p. m. on the day before the committee was to vote, supporters of the bill attempted to get in touch with the President to ask him to put the "heat" on Representatives Smith (Conn.) and Schaefer (Ill.), two Democrats who were flirting with the opposition.

A telephone call was put in for Marvin McIntyre. They were informed that the socially-minded White House secretary was "out."

An assistant promised to deliver the SOS message—but the friends of the bill heard nothing more.

So next morning the opposition scuttled the bill.

The issue is not settled.

Huey Long was joshing with friends over a report that he had already selected his presidential Cabinet.

Turning to Paul Y. Anderson, correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, he said: "Paul, how would you like to be my Postmaster General?"

"Don't let that stop you,"

CIRCLEVILLE and Pickaway-co residents have lost an honored friend in the death of W. A. Ireland, known to thousands of intimate friends as "Billy." Circleville was almost as much of a "home town" to him as Chillicothe, where he was born and reared, or Columbus, where he achieved wider fame as a cartoonist for the Columbus Dispatch. His art page, "The Passing Show," often featured Circleville and Pickaway-co people, and gained for him a wide acquaintance.

"Billy" was a good friend to everybody, a man who loved nature and the great outdoors and the simple things of life, as evidenced by his artistic talent, his keen wit, his wholesome philosophy and kindness.

DEATH BLOW TO THE NRA

THE UNITED STATES supreme court's decision holding unconstitutional the codemaking provisions of the national recovery act strikes at the very heart of this legislation and kills it.

Deprived by constitutional prohibition of the power to establish codes of fair conduct designed to eliminate abuses in the operation of industry, the administration will be hard pressed to devise legislation which will serve effectively the purpose in view.

Fortunately, this ruling comes at a time when the need of stringent regulation of industry is not as imperative as it was in the days of economic and industrial chaos that preceded and followed the bank holiday. Whether industry and the country as a whole are ready for the freedom of action which critics of administration policies have been demanding will be determined in coming months because they now have it.

Nation-wide interest now centers in Washington, where a crisis in the recovery movement has been precipitated by this sweeping judgment of the supreme court.

THE WAR ON NOISE

LAST week in New York the League for Less Noise was launched with the good wishes of Mayor LaGuardia and the sponsorship of distinguished engineers and civic leaders. It is the culmination of eight years of effort to abate the considerable din of our largest city, but which have left it nevertheless the noisiest town in the world. The movement has gained added impetus now, however, from the marked success of a similar venture in much shorter time in London.

There wonders have been accomplished by the active and well-organized Anti-Noise League headed by Lord Horder, physician to the Prince of Wales. With but little technical information to go on, against a more conservative legal system and with its official support confined in the beginning almost solely to the courageous Major Horder-Bellish, the only minister of transport in history willing to displace the organized motorists for benefit of the general public. The British league already has suppressed a considerable list of noise annoyances, including that supreme nuisance of needless automobile horns at night.

On the possibility such a movement might spread throughout the country, we hope for its complete success in New York. And if it should contemplate a branch chapter in Circleville, we know of lots of people who would take an active part in it.

EVERY MAN A FOOL

THE CHAIN-LETTER is an ingenious fraud which presupposes every man to be a fool. It assumes that each of the hundreds and thousands of men and women who receive the letters will carry out their injunction and send 10 cents or $10 to a total stranger, and will forthwith dispatch a similar command to friends and acquaintances or to other strangers telling them to do the same.

The chain letter presupposes and assumes all this — and built the time the supposition and assumption is correct. There are two reasons for it. There is the dire warning of evil and terrifying consequence for "breaking the chain." Fright and superstition, of course, but people have been susceptible to brank and superstition since the world began. Then there is the reward and the more potent reason: the promise of vast reward in dollars and cents.

Of course a majority of the chain-letter writers do hold the bag. It must be so. It could not be otherwise. If one person is to profit a thousandfold or ten thousandfold on an investment of 10 cents or $1, the money has to come from somewhere. If it were flawless we should all become millionaires. The thing would know no bounds. Huey Long's share-the-wealth and Dr. Townsend's paltry pensions would be outstripped in material benefits, if not in the theory underlying them!

An alien critic says Americans are fair but too severe. He probably heard about our custom of hanging the jury.

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE BELLE BURNS GROMER

READ THIS FIRST:
Following a whirlwind romance in Shanghai where he is attached to a U. S. gunboat, ensign Lieutenant Valentine Preston is married to Lia Garanne, an American southerner whom he first observed while en route to say goodby to Janice Edging, his childhood sweetheart, as she sailed for the Puget Sound Navy Yard where her father, Captain Edging, has been assigned. Val left Janice in a huff, ran into Lia again, and learned she was alone in the world except for an aunt in Peiping and a father she had not seen in years who was exploring in the Gobi desert. Their friendship blossomed into love and within a week they were married. When Val's orders arrive, transferring him to Puget Sound Navy Yard, Lia is bitterly disappointed at the thought of leaving China. Brad Norris, a classmate of Val's who has just resigned from the navy to accept a lucrative offer with the Cordray Aviation Co., meets the Prestons at Seattle. But Sue, his wife, hadn't invited the Prestons to tea—and Lia was pointing out that she and Val rode on the ferry from Seattle to Bremerton. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 15

IT LOOKED as if Lia and Sue weren't going to click here any more than they had in China. Since Brad was his best friend it troubled him to consider the strain of this possible situation. That short visit with Brad today had bothered him, too. He sensed that something was not right there. The kid seemed to find his new job with Cordray okay although it took him out of town more than he liked. He had a sizable salary, it appeared, but it evidently required plenty of money to live in the States. Lia, however, the market selling short—had contributed toward the expensive car and his new home in Bremerton. Brad had confided from all indications, he appeared to be sitting on top of the world. And yet there was something underneath all this apparent well-being that puzzled and distressed Val. Where was Brad's old spontaneous smile? His friend was thinner than Val remembered him. There was a drawn, worried look in his eyes that was no more like his old roommate than noon was like midnight.

As the ferry rounded a point Val's attention was snatched by the first outline of towering cranes and the skeleton upper works of battleship cranes against the dimming sky. Then as they drew nearer his glimpse of the yard retreated to give him a fuller view of Bremerton through the shadow of the rain. It lay on an inlet crested by evergreen hills, a town of perhaps ten thousand inhabitants with the navy yard hugging its right flank.

Staring through the gray mist he viewed the few lighted business streets and the workmen's cottages fringing the bluff and felt his spirit descend with the damp of the evening's gloom. His port for the next two years. What lay ahead for him here? His new duty was that of assistant communication officer—a

Yet real estate is the foundation stone of all values. So it is particularly gratifying to note the distinct upward turn in the realty market, the enlarged activity, the trend toward better values, the filling up of vacancies. Real estate is showing unmistakable signs of recovery.

Editorial Of The Day

"LAND IS PERMANENT" (Cincinnati Enquirer)

Our greatest national wealth is in real estate, in farms, in buildings in cities, and in homes of our people. "Lands are permanent," said George Washington, when he looked about for investments. He and millions of Americans since his time have regarded the purchase of land and of buildings as the surest way to safeguard one's fortune.

Later on came Henry George, who pointed out that the more people the more value land possessed. For example, an "out lot" in Cincinnati in 1810 on which the owner pastured his cows really had no actual value except as a cow pasture. Yet when a city of half a million people grows up around it, it then has a tremendous value. Because of the enormous growth of America our lands everywhere, grew more and more valuable.

Sometimes, of course, lands have had fictitious values, as when Florida went crazy ten years ago

THEATRES

AT THE CIRCLE

"When Strangers Meet" suggested by a story written by Zona Gale, now showing at the Circle Theatre.

With Richard Cromwell and Arline Judge heading a large cast of nineteen players, and directed by William Christy Cabanne, "When Strangers Meet" has been heralded as one of the more promising of the season's film offerings.

Charles Middleton, Lucien Littlefield, Barbara Weeks and Sheila Terry are prominent in support. Adele Buffington is credited with the screen story. The picture was produced by Liberty, as one of its special attractions.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Bilwan G Robinson the screen's outstanding character actor, will be seen in his first serio-comic role in Columbia's "The Whole Town's Talking," which will be the feature attraction at the Cliftona Theatre starting Friday.

Based on a story by W. R. Burnett, author of Robinson's greatest film success, "Little Caesar," and adapted to the screen by the two ace scenarists at the Columbia studio, Robert Riskin and Joe Swering, "The Whole Town's Talking" presents the hilarious and exciting adventures of a meek, poetic office clerk who is sprung into the headlines because of his remarkable resemblance to the country's most dangerous criminal.

Also seen in the east are Wallace Ford, Arthur Hohl, Arthur Byron, Donald Meek and John Wray. John Ford, well-known director, handled the megaphone.

AT THE GRAND

"The Mystery of Edwin Drood," starring Claud Rains with Douglas Montgomery, Heather Angel and David Manners, will be the feature at the Grand theatre Friday and Saturday.

The original story was written by Charles Dickens.

The eleventh chapter of "Rustlers of Red Dog" will also be shown.

One Minute Pulpit

"He that diligently seeketh good procureth favor; but he that seeketh mischief, it shall come unto him.—Proverbs 11:27.

Why Air Conditioned Room

Isn't as Fresh as Outdoors

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

AIR CONDITIONING, the new science of ventilation, has made an air conditioned room in our American summer climate a highly desirable object of attainment, not most people notice when they have been in an air conditioned room, a stale, stuffy atmosphere, that makes them want to go outside a few minutes, no matter how hot it is.

As yet, we are not able to re-ventilate indoors the stimulating quality of the existing outdoors in the country under ideal weather conditions. As a matter of fact, we do not even know what does cause the stimulating quality of outdoor air, which is apparently lost when it is brought indoors, particularly if it is handled by mechanical means. It is conjectured that the stimulating qualities are due to ultraviolet light and ionization. While it is accepted that solar radiation has marked curative values in certain diseases and is also a powerful germicidal agent, there is nothing to substantiate the theory that ultraviolet sources produce indoors the stimulating quality found in outdoor air. As for ionization, we know that both positive and negative ions decrease materially when people enter and remain in a room and increase when they leave. It was assumed at first that this had some effect on comfort and health, but we lack proof that a high ion content has any effect on either health or comfort.

Ozone Considered
Along this line we cannot omit consideration of ozone. Ozone is oxygen in its most active form, such as atmospheric electricity or lightning. Because oxygen in this form combines with organic matter, it was presumed that by discharging electricity into a room, organic matter currying odors would be destroyed. Experiments in this regard have been made. Recent opinions, however, are that because the process in operation creates a distinctive odor, its principal value is overcoming an existing odor with a different one. Also that sufficient ozone discharged into a room to cause the odor-destroying effect claimed would be injurious to health.

Still another discovery, which so far has not been developed, is the fact that the hydrogen content of a room is somewhat lowered when it is air conditioned. While it is conjectured that this may be the cause of the flat or devalued odor sometimes encountered in air cooled spaces, there is nothing conclusive on the subject.

A survey of the whole study would seem to show that the advantages, in large cities at least, are in favor of air conditioning; that with it we have at all times a satisfactory temperature; clean air; and soothing air motion as opposed to nature's offer of a stimulating quality of air with the other enumerated qualities only for a total of 72 hours a year, and that only in certain remote ideal spots.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

And yet there was something underneath all this apparent well-being that puzzled and distressed Val. Where was Brad's old spontaneous smile? His friend was thinner than Val remembered him. There was a drawn, worried look in his eyes that was no more like his old roommate than noon was like midnight.

As the ferry rounded a point Val's attention was snatched by the first outline of towering cranes and the skeleton upper works of battleship etched against the dimming sky. Then as they drew nearer his glimpse of the yard retreated to give him a fuller view of Bremerton through the shadow of the rain. It lay on an inlet circled by evergreen hills, a town of perhaps ten thousand inhabitants with its navy yard hugging its right flank.

Straining through the gray mist he viewed the few lighted business streets and the workmen's cottages fringing the bluff and felt his spirits descend with the damp of the evening's gloom. His port for the next two years. What lay ahead for him here? His new duty was that of assistant communication officer—a sort of glorified messenger boy, junior to everyone else on the station—and he couldn't give it much. Indeed, from the time when he had received his orders to the Puget Sound yard, a foreboding concerning this place had grown within him.

The ferry came into the dock and catching up the overnight bag, Val took Lia's arm to guide her across along the soggy timbers of the slip. Navy yard workmen, waiting to board the returning ferry, surged about them; umbrellas menaced their eyes and dripped down their necks; they were blinded by the glare of headlights.

After a long interval Brad's café-lit sedan wove in through the jam and the Prestons, damp and chilled from their long wait, were glad to find shelter in the front seat beside Brad. Sue, looking very smart in a brown cape-suit and trig sprig sailor, leaned forward from one of the jump-seats to kiss them both with such unprecedented warmth that Val half-turned in his place to stare at her. The car was fragrant with a blending of L'Heure Bleue and gin, and as Sue presented the other occupants of the tonneau—two young civilian couples from Seattle who were her house guests—he saw that they were all well acquainted with the oil of goodness.

Mrs. Field and Mrs. Browne, quite evidently sisters, were fair and violet-eyed, each had a deep dimple in her round right cheek, and the identical shade of moist vermilion lipstick fashioned their mouths into exaggerated cupid's bows. They differed, however, in their choice of a husband although both men, it appeared, were brokers. Field was a stoutish fellow of thirty or so, notable for a chuckling laugh, a sandy mustache and bluish puffs under the eyes. Browne on the other hand, was a slight, wiry chap who carried out the shadings of his name in eyes, hair, suit, his neat business suit, fawn linen and cinnamon scarf.

Val's appraisal of the tonneau's occupants was diverted to Brad who, maintaining a stern silence, stared stonily before him, maneuvered the car through traffic, and then sped along the shadowy streets. What was wrong with the kid? Presently, with a grinding of brakes, he stopped the motor near a vacant lot.

Sue explained her husband's manner with a laugh. "My lord and master doesn't approve because I insisted on fetching along a little cher to help you Prestons make your bows to the admiral and the rest of the rank. No liquor allowed in the yard, you know. Tea means exactly tea and nothing else."

Val watched her touch a button and saw the back of the front seat slip down and arrange itself into a complete little bar stocked with a row of silver cups, a significant flask, and even a silver shaker sweating with intention to have its contents absorbed. As he thought how easily this stimulating liquid could banish the chill and depression of the dismal dusk, Val's heart gave a bound of pleasure. But even as Sue poured the pinkish-amber concoction into his musing cups, he wrested away his

"Not any for me, thanks," he said and turned back to stare at the dash. Sue, a cup extended in her hand, demanded, "Why, Val Preston! Gone noble on us?"

"Don't drink when I'm in uniform," he reminded her shortly.

The plump Field shouted with laughter. "The wages of gold braid is thirst," he hooted. "Why didn't you have to wear your brass buttons and cramp your style, old chap? Why didn't you?"

Not that it was any of this cackling so-and-so's business, Val gloomed darkly, but the man was so insistent he finally explained that he had expected to reach the yard early enough to make his official call at the admiral's office; it was customary on such an occasion to wear service uniform.

Sue lifted her cup in salute. "Sorry Val," she mocked. "Lia will have to do the honors for the family. After all, being out of the service does have its compensations, doesn't it?" Val saw her put a light hand on her husband's shoulder, but Brad did not respond to the caressing gesture. That wasn't like Brad; he had always been pathetically eager for any indication of this red-head's favor. Sue's full lips tightened suddenly at the corners. Then she shrugged and turned away to say pattingly to Lia, "You can't imagine how wonderful it is to be free to do exactly as we please."

"But free to do what?" Lia drawled. "It must be frightfully dull in this little place where you aren't really in the navy set any more."

Why in the name of the great horn spoon did she have to antagonize Sue! Brad's wife turned back to her civilian guests, but Val knew she would only bide her time.

Lia blandly sipped her cocktail. The tantalizing, lemonish odor made his arrogant nostrils twitch. He longed for the warmth and courage it could so easily bestow. The temptation to join in the party was almost more than he could endure.

As he sat staring morosely at the floor he spied the sodden soles of Lia's pumps and he leaned over abruptly to slip one off. "You'll catch your death in the rain," he said.

When she retorted that she could not very well pay calls in her stockinged feet, he hunched forward to the overnight bag to bring out a ridiculous pair of red Chinese slippers. They were of satin with padded soles and had peacock feathers embroidered on the toes. Peacock feathers were eyes of evil and brought bad luck. Sue cried when she saw what he was doing. But he insisted Lia's wet pumps must be replaced until she could stop at their quarters to get proper footwear out of her luggage.

After her second cocktail, however, Lia scoffed at the idea of making a change. She would not, she said, wear any other than these very Chinese slippers. Indeed she was in gurgles of soft laughter over appearing at the admiral's tea in them. She joined in the merriment. "Right, Lia, be an individualist," she applauded.

Editorial Of The Day
"LAND IS PERMANENT"
(Cincinnati Enquirer)
Our greatest national wealth is in real estate, in farms, in buildings in cities, and in homes of our people. "Lands are permanent," said George Washington, when he looked about for investments. He and millions of Americans since his time have regarded the purchase of land and of buildings as the surest way to safeguard one's fortune.
Later on came Henry George, who pointed out that the more people the more value land possessed. For example, an "out lot" in Cincinnati in 1810 on which the owner pastured his cows really had no actual value except as a cow pasture. Yet when a city of half a million people grows up around it, it then has a tremendous value. Because of the enormous growth of America our lands everywhere, grew more and more valuable.
Sometimes, of course, lands have had fictitious values, as when Florida went crazy ten years ago and staked off half the state in city lots. But, as a rule, real estate values are steadily on a sound basis. In 1929 when the value of things represented by paper certificates crashed, real estate declined, too.

Yet real estate is the foundation stone of all values. So it is particularly gratifying to note the distinct upward turn in the realty market, the enlarged activity, the trend toward better values, the filling up of vacancies. Real estate is showing unmistakable signs of recovery.

"WHAT DOES LITTLE BIRDIE SAY?"
What does little birdie say
In her nest at peep of day?
Let me fly, says little birdie,
Mother, let me fly away.
Birdie, rest a little longer,
Till the little wings are stronger.
So she rests a little longer,
Then she flies away.
What does little baby say,
In her bed at peep of day?
Baby says, like little birdie,
Let me rise and fly away.
Baby, sleep a little longer,
Till the little limbs are stronger,
If she sleeps a little longer,
Baby too shall fly away.

Contract Bridge

AN EXPENSIVE OMISSION
LAST EVENING both sides were vulnerable when the following hand was dealt. I sat North and had little to do. While dummy I was answering a telephone call when an unusual and costly mistake was made by the declarer.

♠ 7 6 5 2	♥ A 10 7	♦ None	♣ A Q 10 9 5 4
♠ 8	♥ K Q	♦ A J 10	♣ K J 8 3 2
♠ 9 8	♥ J 9 4 2	♦ 9 8 6 5 3	♣ 7 6
♠ A K J 10 4	♥ 8 6 5 3	♦ K Q 4 2	♣ None

Bidding went: South, 1-spade; West, 2-clubs; North, 2-diamonds, to see if my partner would rebid or shift his call; South, 3-spades, to force me to rebid diamonds, support spades, bid hearts or go no trumps; North, 4-spades.

West made the best defensive opening lead of his lowest trump, which dummy's Q took. The K of hearts went to West's Ace and another trump lead ruined declarer's chances to ruff one of his losing hearts, but even then he could see fulfillment of his contract.

South won the second lead of trumps, then took two more leads of that suit to run West out of spades. Next declarer ran off all four of his diamond tricks, bringing play through the ninth trick, as I left the room to answer the telephone call.

Dummy's Q of hearts won the tenth trick, but declarer did not play to the trick, and nobody noticed the error. I entered the room just as a low club was led from dummy and declarer discarded one of his hearts. West led the good 10 of hearts and dummy discarded a club. As declarer played to the heart trick he noticed for the first time that he held one more card than any other player. Under the old laws that meant a new deal. Under the new laws (Law 23, Sec. 2) my partner had to correct his error, then hand one trick to opponents, just defeating our contract by the single trick. The new code makes no provision for protection by defenders, when declarer's partner is absent. The whole thing was my fault primarily, as I neglected to ask opponents to protect my partner during my absence. Next time I shall be more careful.

South played the hand at 4-spades. The first two leads were the A-K of diamonds. Before tomorrow see how many tricks the declarer can make.

Why Air Conditioned Room Isn't as Fresh as Outdoors
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Dr. Clending

ideal weather conditions. As a matter of fact, we do not even know what does cause the stimulating quality of outdoor air, which is apparently lost when it is brought indoors, particularly if it is handled by mechanical means. It is conjectured that the stimulating qualities are due to ultraviolet light and ionization. While it is accepted that solar radiation has marked curative values in certain diseases and is also a powerful germicidal agent, there is nothing to substantiate the theory that ultraviolet sources produce indoors the stimulating quality found in outdoor air. As for ionization, we know that both positive and negative ions decrease materially when people enter and remain in a room and increase when they leave. It was assumed at first that this had some effect on comfort and health, but we lack proof that a high ion content has any effect on either health or comfort.

Ozone Considered
Along this line we cannot omit consideration of ozone. Ozone is oxygen in its most active form, such as atmospheric electricity or lightning. Because oxygen in this form combines with organic matter, it was presumed that by discharging electricity into a room, organic matter carrying odors would be destroyed. Experiments to bring ozone into an air conditioned room have been made. Recent opinions, however, are that because the process in operation creates a distinctive odor, its principal value is overcoming an existing odor with a different one. Also that sufficient ozone discharged into a room to cause the odor-destroying quality claimed would be injurious to health.

Still another discovery, which so far has not been developed, is the fact that the hydrogen content of a room is somewhat lowered when it is air conditioned. While it is conjectured that this may be the cause of the flat or devalitized odor sometimes encountered in air cooled spaces, there is nothing conclusive on the subject.

A survey of the whole study would seem to show that the advantages, in large cities at least, are in favor of air conditioning; that with it we have at all times: a satisfactory temperature; clean air; and soothing air motion as opposed to nature's offer of a stimulating quality of air with the other enumerated qualities only for a total of 72 hours a year, and that only in certain remote ideal spots.

PATTERN 9383

You step right into your morning when you wear this chic little house number. Its trim neat lines inspire you! Raglan sleeves flatter every woman and the broad lapels and pocket flap offer some clever possibilities in color contrast. There's plenty of freedom with that kick pleat in the skirt. And the memory of making this dress yourself will be a pleasant one because it was such easy fun! With hot mid-summer days ahead you'll want to have a good supply of this cool little number on hand. Make it up in sturdy cotton to resist hard wear—a print, or monotone would be equally good. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9383 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric and 1-2 yard contrasting.

Household Arts

Here is a network square in filet crochet that you will find most useful. The simple rose spray is effectively set off by the open lace stitch. The edge is interesting when one square alone is used as in a pillow top crocheted in string. It's doubly lovely when the squares are joined for then it makes an additional pattern. You can crochet it in string or in finer cotton as you choose.

In pattern 5357 you will find complete instructions for making the square shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

COLUMBUS, May 31.—Sine die adjournment of the regular session of the 91st Ohio general assembly without passing the biennial appropriations bill or legislation making possible old-age pension payments after June 30, today became almost a certainty.

Speaker J. Freer Bittinger (D) of Ashland, announced that "unless the senate will agree to come back, the house will not reconvene except to hold a skeleton session for adoption of an adjournment motion."

Adjournment under those circumstances would mean an immediate special session will be called to pass the appropriations bill, sundry claims bill and old-age pension revenue measures. Gov. Marvin L. Davey has already stated.

He cannot compel the senate to return while it is in recess.

The house recessed Wednesday subject to the call of the speaker. Bittinger said he was trying to reach an agreement with senate leaders for the upper house to return long enough to reach a compromise on the appropriations bill and make provision for old-age pensions, but admitted the prospects for success are dim.

Reported Safe

From Olympia, the state capital, came a statement that gave a ray of sunshine to the Weyerhaeusers. It was from William Cole, chief of the state patrol.

"The child is safe; he'll be returned to his parents unharmed," the chief said, veiling his source of information.

Evidence continued to pile up indicating that the Elvin Karpis mob perpetrated the crime.

Karpis, U. S. Public Enemy No. 1, and Volney Davis and Harry Campbell are said to be the three men seen in a machine near the fashionable Annie Wright seminary, whence little George was seized while awaiting his sister for their trip home for lunch.

It was disclosed that associates of the Karpis gang formerly made this district a "resting place."

cepted radio messages dispatched from Quetta.

Camps for the injured and destitute homeless were set up at the Quetta race track.

Food Supply Good

The food supply was adequate, for the present at least, and possibility of highways and railroads eliminated fears of starvation.

A railway official who managed to get to Spezzand from Quetta by rail and motor reported the railway headquarters completely ruined, and many railway company employees killed. Several railway officials also were killed he reported.

The first shocks, which occurred at three o'clock this morning, jiggled electric chandeliers of the bungalow civil station in which Sir Norman Cator was sleeping.

Sir Norman immediately jumped out of bed and ordered all his staff into the open. Just as they emerged from the building it collapsed, leaving only the door frames standing.

Hundreds of residents of the city proper who had fled outdoors at the first tremor were crushed by buildings falling into the street.

Earthquake-stricken Quetta is one of the most important British military posts along the north-western India frontier.

Situated in a plateau 5,500 feet above sea level, it is surrounded by a ring of extinct volcanic mountains, towering 11,000 feet high.

The British defensive system erected here to protect the important Khojak pass leading into Afghanistan led to the growth of the former village into a busy and populous city, the trading center for western Afghanistan, Eastern Persia, and other extensive areas.

Hammond's Atlas estimates its population at 60,272.

FAMILY GIVEN

justice agents have been on the scene since a few hours after the crime, coming first from offices at Seattle and Portland and later from every part of the nation.

Reported Safe

From Olympia, the state capital, came a statement that gave a ray of sunshine to the Weyerhaeusers. It was from William Cole, chief of the state patrol.

"The child is safe; he'll be returned to his parents unharmed," the chief said, veiling his source of information.

Evidence continued to pile up indicating that the Elvin Karpis mob perpetrated the crime.

Karpis, U. S. Public Enemy No. 1, and Volney Davis and Harry Campbell are said to be the three men seen in a machine near the fashionable Annie Wright seminary, whence little George was seized while awaiting his sister for their trip home for lunch.

It was disclosed that associates of the Karpis gang formerly made this district a "resting place."

FEAR 20,000

cepted radio messages dispatched from Quetta.

Camps for the injured and destitute homeless were set up at the Quetta race track.

Food Supply Good

The food supply was adequate, for the present at least, and possibility of highways and railroads eliminated fears of starvation.

A railway official who managed to get to Spezand from Quetta by rail and motor reported the railway headquarters completely ruined, and many railway company employees killed. Several railway officials also were killed he reported.

The first shocks, which occurred at three o'clock this morning, jiggled electric chandeliers of the bungalow civil station in which Sir Norman Cator was sleeping.

Sir Norman immediately jumped out of bed and ordered all his staff into the open. Just as they emerged from the building it collapsed, leaving only the door frames standing.

Hundreds of residents of the city proper who had fled outdoors at the first tremor were crushed

by buildings falling into the street.

Earthquake - stricken Quetta is one of the most important British military posts along the north-western India frontier.

Situated in a plateau 5,500 feet above sea level. It is surrounded by a ring of extinct volcanic mountains, towering 11,000 feet high.

The British defensive system erected here to protect the important Khojak pass leading into Afghanistan led to the growth of the former village into a busy and populous city, the trading center for western Afghanistan, Eastern Persia, and other extensive areas.

Hammond's Atlas estimates its population at 60,272.
